

MURDER ON THE MENU

Members of Ontario Xi Theta Eta, Kitchener, recently time-traveled to the 1920s to solve a murder! The party game Murder at the Four Deuces fueled an out-of-the-ordinary party. Sisters and their significant others adopted characters, dressed in period attire, and enjoyed 1920s drinks and food while they attempted to solve a fictional murder at a speakeasy/casino.

“Since our chapter has had a recent turnover in members, this was an amazing and fun way to get to know the new members,” said Anna Baldwin.

Member Katherine Silver organized the event, which members said was one of the more entertaining gatherings the chapter has had. Members enjoyed prizes for the best dressed and for the best actors.

“One of our newest members, Julie Barlow, was the sleuth who solved the murder,” Baldwin explained. “It was a highly entertaining evening, and we recommend others give it a try!”

- Submitted by Anna Baldwin

Winning detective Julie Barlow and her husband, Ray.

Katherine and Gary Silver, hosts of the “murder.”

From left to right: Stephanie Doyle, Katherine Silver, Anna Anderson, Amberlee O’Connor of Ontario Delta Rho, Cambridge, Anna Baldwin, and Jasmine Peters.

A DAY AT THE ZOO

Envoy II Hagen Vickers, Legacy Gracie Vickers and Envoy II Hank Vickers enjoyed a day at the zoo in Birmingham, Alabama. They’re the grandchildren of their sponsor, Syble Lamons, of Alabama Xi Sigma, McCalla, who celebrated 40 years with Beta Sigma Phi in November. When the kids came from Starkville, Mississippi to visit their “Granny Syble,” the chapter turned out to celebrate, holding a picnic, party and trip to the zoo. The family and chapter wore Beta Sigma Phi t-shirts.

“The children had so much fun that it will go down in history as a great Beta Sigma Phi day and the perfect way to let others see what Beta Sigma Phi is all about!” Syble said.

- Submitted by Syble Lamons